

CV of Invited Faculty

David SIMMONS

Position	Professor of Medicine
Department, Affiliation	Macarthur Clinical School, Western Sydney University
Major Field	Endocrinology
Short Bio (in 150 words):	Distinguished Professor Simmons, is Chief Medical Officer for Diabetes Australia, Professor of Medicine at Western Sydney University, Diabetes Advisor to South Western Sydney Local Health District and former Head of the Campbelltown Hospital Diabetes Service in Sydney, Australia. With over 500 refereed publications, he has won several national and international awards for his work in diabetes epidemiology, diabetes in pregnancy and diabetes service development including the American Diabetes Association 2020 Norbert Freinkel Award and 2022 Diabetes in Pregnancy Study Group Pederson Awardee. He is the immediate past president of the Australasian Diabetes in Pregnancy Society (ADIPS). He was the trial coordinator for the DALI lifestyle RCT to prevent GDM and is the Chief Investigator for the TOBOGM study the first large RCT of diagnosing and treating early gestational diabetes mellitus. He remains a practising endocrinologist holding weekly diabetes in pregnancy clinics.

*The information will be shown on the website and conference materials only.